NOTES AND COMMENTS.

We congratulate His Excellency the Governor upon his decision with reference to the Night Pass Ordinance, and are glad that more prudent counsels have prevailed. We publish in another column two letters on the subject—one from the Colonial Secretary to the Captain Superintendent of Police, the other the Governor's answer to the petition of the Chinese on the subject of Lights and Passes. We venture to urge upon the Governor the advisability of at once amending the Lights and Pass Ordinance and putting it into effective shape while the subject is still fresh in all minds. Then, after it is amended and made really effective, it may rest in the armoury until required for use—never, we hope, to be again brought into service without ample notice to all concerned that it is still in existence and will be enforced.

No greater injustice can possibly be committed than to enforce without due notice a law which has deliberately been allowed to fall into abeyance.

From a recent issue of the Sydney Star we gather that the hapless residents of Hongkong and Singapore are by no means the only colonists on whom the Imperial Government has evil designs in respect of what are by courtesy styled "contributions." The Star credits Lord

Brasserie, the new Governor of Victoria, with being one of the "new Imperial party bent on Imperial Federation with the object steadily in view to wheedle and beguile the colonies into contributing more and more to the fund for the defence of the Empire." But Lord Brasserie, it appears, soon discovered that the Australians at least are apathetic on this question, and must (like the ratepayers of Hongkong and Singapore) be put through a special process of education before they can safely be called on to make their burdens greater than they are at present in respect of Imperial defence.

We read that "the co-operation of these colonies with the mother country in the maintenance of the Imperial Navy would, doubtless, at some future time become more considerable than at present," was, metaphorically speaking, the first official sprout thrown out by Lord Brasserie to catch the Antipodean whale.

But the bait was not tempting—not a bit more so than is the percentage levied on this colony's revenue in a most irregular manner—and the Star does not hesitate to inform Lord Brasserie that he is cherishing dangerous illusions in the premises. The contribution already levied for Imperial defence is alleged by Sydney papers to have reached the utmost limit of Australian inclination, and the Government is warned in the plainest of plain English that any attempt on the part of the school to which Lord Brasserie belongs, to induce Australia to increase its contribution will "only arouse ugly questions which are better left sleeping, and might, indeed, endanger and destroy the existing tribute, on which Australia is not, and never has been, very keen." From this it appears clear that our Antipodean

Shipping.
